Is your love in vain? Reading Ecclesiastes and the Song of Songs

Dr Robin Plant

The Song of Songs and Ecclesiastes are part of Christian Scripture - but why? One doesn't mention God, in the other he seems very distant. One brims with erotic delight, the other exudes cynicism and disillusionment. In this illustrated, one-day course, we'll explore their meaning and message, and consider their significance for our faith and practice.

Islam for Anglicans: an Introduction

Revd Dr Stephen Laird

This fast-paced, well-illustrated, reliable and thorough introduction to Islam is ideal for 'the intelligent person in the pew!' Topics include the Qur'an; the role and status of Jesus in Muslim scripture and tradition; and the challenges and demographics of Islam in modern Britain. Fantastic resources will be provided and you will be signposted towards others. Come with your questions and be informed and enthused, whether you are 'just interested' or are already grappling with this fascinating subject.

Praying into Scripture: a practical guide to Ignatian Prayer and Imagination

Revd Dr Susanne Carlsson

You will be introduced to one of the richest traditions of Christian prayer and meditation. The Ignatian approach is especially compelling because of the way we are invited to bring our imaginations into the life of prayer.
